

MONTE GREEN PLANS JANUARY ANNOUNCEMENT

Monte Green, president of the All New England Stadium & Arena Corp. is expected to make an announcement concerning the future of the Wilmington stadium during the last week in January.

Mr Green held an impromptu press conference on Dec. 20th in Boston, at which time it was announced that his firm is ready to move forward with the construction of his stadium-arena complex, between Ballardvale Street and Route 93, with an expected cost of over $40 million. His announcement came only shortly after Edward J Logue, Director of the Boston Development had said that construction of a stadium without state credit to back it was not feasible.

Green said that the details covering the financing and other plans will be unveiled at a meeting to be held in Lowell.

His plan, he said, has the endorsement of 17 Chambers of Commerce who favor construction of a stadium on the 125 acre complex his corporation owns in N. Wilmington. He said that he is ready to build, without state subsidies or pledges of credit, on 'the only site in New England with 100 percent accessibility.'

His proposals, Green said, are backed by 'eight primary investors with assets of more than $200 millions' He did not identify them.

Governor Volpe and members of the Stadium Commission appointed by him to study the problem of a stadium in or near Boston will be invited to attend Green's conference, which will probably be held in Lowell. Green said that his group already has an investment of over $2 million, and that he hopes to persuade the Governor and the members of the Stadium Commission that Wilmington is the best site, in the Lowell meeting.

Fr. Regan will serve in Panama

Capt. John Regan, Chaplain in the US Air Force is being transferred to Panama for a 24 month tour of duty. The former Wilmington priest will begin his new tour on the 16th of January.

Father Regan, who was formerly Curate of St. Thomas, has served two years in West Pakistan, and for the past 30 months has been stationed at Pease Air Force Base in New Hampshire.

He has told the Town Crier that if anyone goes from Wilmington to Panama 'Just give me an hours notice!'

His new address will be: Capt. John Regan, Ch. C., USAF, 5700 AB Wing, APO 09825, NY NY

GORDON HAYWARD RECEIVES PROMOTION AT OLD COLONY

Gordon E. Hayward, of Thrush Road, North Wilmington, has been elected an assistant mutual fund officer at the Old Colony Trust Company, in Boston, by the board of directors. He has served with the company since 1962.

A native of Melrose, he is a graduate of Northeastern University School of Business Administration with a Bachelor of Science Degree, and is a candidate for a Master of Business Administration Degree in 1966 from Northeastern's Graduate School.

He is a member of the Bank Officers Association of Boston, and of the Wilmington Jaycees, and is married to the former Nancy C. Merritt of Melrose.

FIRST TRUMPETS: Of the High School Orchestra, playing at the High School Christmas program, last week. L to R: Andy Glinino Tommy Silvers, David Winters and David Mason.

School Committee hopes to complete Budget tonight

The Wilmington-School Committee, meeting tonight in the Roman House, hopes to finally complete its 1967 Budget. It is now about seven or eight weeks later than its usual completion date.

This year, for the first time the School Committee has had to negotiate and bargain with committees representing the school employees, as the result of a law passed by the State Legislature last year. The delay in completing the budget has been caused by the negotiations. The committee has been meeting at least twice weekly since last September and some of the sessions have lasted until well after midnight.

There are four groups of employees being considered, the teachers, the nurses, the cafeteria staff and the secretarial staff. A fifth group, the janitorial staff, is a matter for the Town Manager, under the Wilmington Town Manager plan.

Representing the teachers and secretaries is the Professional Rights and Responsibilities Committee, of the Wilmington Teachers Association, and a part of the Massachusetts Teachers Association. The nurses are represented by the Massachusetts Nurses Association and the cafeteria workers are represented by the Wilmington Employees Association.

No real 'road-blocks' are expected in tonight's negotiations, and if the meeting succeeds in completing the School Budget it will probably be released to the public on January 5th - which is 16 days after the date (December 20) when the Town Manager is supposed to submit his annual budget, including schools, to the Board of Selectmen.

Pedestrian Killed on Route 93

Dominic J. Corella, 20 year old Clark Street boy, died in the Winchester Hospital Tuesday night after being struck by a car, on Route 93.

The accident happened at 10 pm in the southbound lane, South of Concord Street. William P Stroub of Country Club Road Woburn told Trooper Loneragan of the Andover State Police Barracks that Corella was out in the second lane, on foot, and that he could not see him in time to avert the accident. Stroub was driving a 1965 Pontiac.

The Wilmington Fire Department Ambulance took Corella to the Winchester Hospital.

Corella's presence on the high speed highway, on foot, could not be explained.

Ironically, Corella was involved in a fatal accident on July 6th of this year, on Ballardvale Street when a car driven by his cousin Stephen Chase overturned. Chase was killed, and Corella suffered a puncture in his back, from which he recovered in the Winchester Hospital.

A native of Boston, he was the son of Mr and Mrs Dominic A. Corella of 48 Clark Street. He was educated in the Wilmington schools and at the time of his death was employed as a shoe worker. Beside his parents he is survived by three sisters Mrs Mary Mollica and Mrs Roberta Gay, both of Tewksbury, Mrs Doris Blanchette of Tyngsboro and a brother, Richard, also of Tewksbury. He is also survived by his maternal grandfather, Josiah Chase of Saco, Maine.

Funeral services are to be held from the W S Cavanaugh & Son Funeral Home, 374 Main Street Friday at 8:15 am, to be followed by a High Mass of Requiem at St. Thomas Church at 9 am. Burial is to be in the family lot in Wildwood Cemetery.

Visiting hours tonight, at the Cavanaugh Funeral Home, are from 7 to 10 pm.

To Visit Russia was a Moving Experience

The visit of the Tour Choir of the New England Conservatory of Music to Russia was, to Richard Silverman of 135 Middlesex Avenue a very moving experience - one that gave him impressions which will last forever.

The choir visited Russia under the sponsorship of the US Department of State, and probably saw and heard things that few Americans are privileged to hear and see. It was of course a cultural tour, but it enabled the visiting Americans to become very close to their Russian hosts, - to visit them in their homes, and exchange experiences, events which rarely happens to visiting Americans.

Richard is the son of Dr. (of Music) and Mrs. Herbert Silverman and is a Junior in the New England Conservatory. He is majoring in Music Education and piano, and has been a member of the Conservatory Tour Choir for two years.

In its Russian tour the Choir visited Moscow twice, Leningrad, Kiev, Lvov, Minsk, Yerevan, Tbilisi and Baku. They sang to over-capacity audiences in each city, and were honored guests at all times.

In Kiev, in the Ukraine, for instance. Their hotel was across a square from the concert hall in which they sang, perhaps 150 yards away.

That square was just jammed with Russian citizens, for each of their four performances - people who could not hope to get into the hall and hear the American choir, but who wanted to see, and perhaps touch the persons of the visitors. It took the members of the choir over an hour to walk back across that square, after their first performance, and the militia (police) had to clear the way for them or they would have never made it.

On the second night the windows of the hall were left open, in order that the crowds outside might possibly hear some of the singing. The Director of the Hall said from the stage that he was not a religious man, but that he had found himself praying to God that the overpacked galleries would not collapse.

The nicest place in which they sang was the Philharmonic Hall in Leningrad, supposed to be the best in Russia. It has a capacity of 2400 and on each of the four nights in which the choir sang there, a crowd of over 4000 was present.

The choir members met many Russians from the musical and cultural world and exchanged gifts and opinions freely. One of Silverman's biggest prizes is a near folio of music given him by Grigory Schneerson, who is the top Soviet expert on American music, and a long time friend of such famed American musicians as Pete Seeger, Walter Piston, and Aaron Copeland.

Silverman found that the Russians had very little acquaintance as a whole with twentieth century American music, but one piece they did know and appreciate was Randall Thompson's 'Alleluia', which was introduced to them several years ago when the choir of Oberlin College in Ohio visited Russia. 'They loved it' Silverman reports, 'and we had to sing in many times, in encore periods'.

The New England Conservatory Choir introduced several pieces of music to the Russians which Silverman feels will continue to be known in Soviet Russia. One of these, which Silverman thinks was a big contribution, was the 67th Psalm, by Charles Ives.

'They were overwhelmed when we gave them copies of the music' he says.

Thanksgiving

One of the greatest events for the visiting Americans was on Thanksgiving Day, while the choir was in Kiev.

They had returned to their hotel to find a traditionally American Thanksgiving Dinner awaiting them. There were four huge turkeys, squash, fresh fruit (very rare in Russia) and even a bottle of Georgian wine at each place.

Fifty five Americans and seven Russians were at that dinner. The waitresses were of course Russian and non-English speaking, but this was a matter of small import to the visitors, who by this time had picked up a smattering of Russian.

But Thanksgiving had to be explained to the Russians, and this took a bit of doing - and it was interrupted from time to time by the spontaneous singing of American folksongs relating to Thanksgiving.

'There was no cranberry sauce' Silverman recalls, 'nor were there any pumpkin pies nor sweet potatoes, - but we didn't notice that. And there was a huge pickled watermelon, an entire melon, pickled' 'None of the Russians had ever seen a Thanksgiving Dinner before and we had to sit and explain through the interpreters what it meant, and how the Americans gave thanks to God for a bountiful harvest'.

The Americans found their hosts deeply moved by the story of Thanksgiving, so much so that they too realized more than ever before the significance of the day. 'We really knew then, what the day means,' Silverman says, 'more than we ever had before.'

Another experience of which Silverman likes to speak was the meeting with His Holiness, Vascan, First Catholicos of the Armenian Catholic Church.

It happened in Yerevan, which is in Soviet Armenia. His Holiness is the head of a church which was founded in 301 AD, and has a position which can be compared to the Pope, in the Roman Catholic Church. He lives in a building which is called the Echmiadzin, and is in effect the Vatican of his church.

The visiting Americans were invited to have a private audience with His Holiness, and this, and the sequel, was the most exciting part of the entire trip.

They sang for His Holiness, and one of the Bishops of the Armenian Catholic Church sang for them.

PRACTICE SESSION: In Boston, before leaving for Russia. Silverman is in front, wearing glasses.

That, it seemed, was the end of that particular adventure, but in the evening, when they were giving their concert in the Philharmonic Hall the audience and choir were electrified when His Holiness entered the hall, to hear the Choir.

It was the first time since the church was founded in AD 301 that the First Catholicos had attended a public concert - and were the people excited!

The hall rang with standing ovations, not only for the visiting choir, but even more so for the religious leader of the Russian Armenians!

Christmas Carols

Another experience was in Tbilisi - what Silverman calls the 'Christmas Carol Story'.

It happened in the hotel. There were about twenty Russians with the Americans, when the choir began to spontaneously sing Christmas Carols - all the familiar songs which have been heard in the United States for years, at Christmastide.

The singing ended with a rendition of The Hallelujah Chorus, by Handel.

'I have never seen people touched as were those Russians' Silverman says.

One of them was a nineteen year old girl from Moscow, a language major who was one of the interpreters who had accompanied the group throughout the tour.

She had been very antagonistic all the time she had been with the choir. The Thanksgiving experience had moved her somewhat, but it took the Christmas Carols to change her attitude completely. 'Not only did she lose her antagonism completely, but she became a very close friend to us all,' Silverman says. 'It was to me a demonstration of the fact that mankind can reach out to one another, over barriers that seem to be great'.

SILVERMAN: With two Tchaikovsky Arias, given him by a student at the Kiev Conservatory. Silverman and the student, with the student's wife and a girl friend toured Kiev, including a walk along the famed Dnieper River.

The circular badge on his coat was given him by the US Department of State, identifying him as a member of the cultural mission to Russia. The badges on the lapel are Soviet medals, given him by friends in Russia.

and increase capital stock outstanding to 300,000 shares, par $10. It is anticipated that the Board of Directors will continue the regular semi-annual dividend of $1.00 per share, payable in July, on the new stock.

In addition, the Bank's Board of Directors approved a further transfer of $500,000 from undivided profits to surplus. After giving effect to the above transfers the Bank's capitalization would include a surplus account of $5 million and an undivided profits account of approximately $2.1 million.

With twenty-three offices serving fifteen communities, the Middlesex County National Bank reports currently total assets of $135,000,000.

JACKIE BOWEN PLAYED IN SUNBOWL: On the day before Christmas, and is now home enjoying the Christmas Holidays. He was seen on the TV screen at least six times by many Wilmington viewers.

Jackie, who was the all time star Half Back of the Wilmington High School team three years ago, played Defensive End for the University of Wyoming, which defeated Florida State 28 to 20.

Jackie now weighs in at 205 pounds. When playing for Wilmington he was 170 pounds.

Busiest season ever for Wilmington Post Office

It was, as is to be expected, the busiest Christmas season ever for the Wilmington Postoffice.

There was a total of 462,000 stamps on envelopes cancelled. 242,300 four cent stamps were sold and 91,400 five cent stamps. Also sold were 382 coils of 100 five cent stamps and 5100 books of 20 five cent stamps.

A surprising item is that the three Rural Free Delivery Mail Carriers service nearly half of the postal patrons.

There are a total of about 4070 families and firms who get their mail through the Wilmington Post Office, including post office mail boxes, the six City Delivery routes and the three Rural routes. The three Rural carriers service a total of 1923 mail patrons. All three carriers have routes which are much heavier than the average RFD route in the United States.

Even then there is a constant enlarging of the three Rural routes and some applications for extending the routes have been in the Boston Regional Office for some weeks, awaiting approval.

Selectmen's Meeting

A German Shepard watchdog by the name of Maverick occupied the attention of the Board of Selectmen Tuesday evening - the meeting having been delayed one day because of the holidays.

Maverick is the watchdog for the Wilmington Bowladrome, on lower Main Street, a position of doggy trust which he has occupied for the past eight years. Recently he has been annoying neighbors by his barking, and it was that barking which kept the Selectmen talking for the better part of an hour.

Barrucci, with his attorney, Mr. Lucas, and Mr and Mrs Bellmore, neighbors, were present for the hearing, which began at 8:15 pm. Atty Lucas opened the proceedings by requesting that no formal complaint be issued, because of the number of legal overtones which would result for his client, Mr. Barrucci. Barrucci had already written a letter to the Selectmen saying that the dog would be confined at night, Lucas told the Selectmen.

He had also discussed the case with the dog officer, Leo LeBlanc. Selectman Paul Niles told Lucas that the formal complaint had already been issued, as of two weeks ago.

Mr Bellmore, who had his turn to speak, told the board, in an emotional scene, that the dog kept his family awake, and that he had found his wife weeping in the kitchen at 5 am on a Saturday morning. He was pleading with the Selectmen to act in his behalf, because he had no attorney.

The discussion for a while centered on whether or not the dog barked while he was inside, and or outside, and the Bellmore family said in effect that when the dog was inside it wasn't so bad - it was when he was out.

The mutual feeling was that the solution was to keep the dog inside, and then Mrs Drew wanted to know how they board would know if the dog was being kept in. Lucas told her that this would happen if the board so ordered, and Niles said that if there was an order of that kind it would be easier to enforce. Bellmore added that if things continued as they are he would have to ask that the dog be destroyed.

Niles then wanted to know if the dog could be trained to stop barking, and Barrucci told Niles that the dog had been at the bowling alleys for eight years, and this was the first complaint.

Bellmore again spoke up to say that he wanted the dog destroyed but Mr Niles and Mr Micelli demurred at this.

Town Manager Harold Melzar then suggested that the dog be restrained for 30 days, to see if this would work out in a satisfactory manner, and then at the end of the 30 day period the Selectmen could hold another hearing.

Chairman Bender, speaking for the board, said that the Selectmen would like to resolve the problem as informally as possible. He said that if the Selectmen had to take further action it would be at the end of the thirty day period, and suggested that 10:30 in the evening might be a good time to restrain Maverick.

This was agreeable to the rest of the board, and Bender asked Barrucci if he were willing to sign the section of his letter in which he had made such an offer. Barrucci agreed.

Charles Black then made a motion that the formal hearing be held on January 30th., after the trial period, and this was voted.

Other Business

The Selectmen signed a number of licenses, and when it came time to approve of Second Class Auto Dealers licenses (i.e. new cars, etc.,) Mrs Drew was not in favor of licenses for firms that sold trailers for campers. Three places in Wilmington have such sales offices.

There was a report from the Building Inspector that there was a light manufacturing operation going on at the Silver Lake Shopping Center, and that he wanted to give the report to the Town Counsel for action. TM Melzar said it was his personal opinion that it was not a manufacturing operation. There had been an appeal made to the Board of Appeals, but it had been withdrawn, Melzar said, because of a wrong address. The firm, Melzar said, had been contacted again, and if a second appeal were applied for the case would be out of the Selectmen's hands, and in the hands of the Board of Appeals.

Mr Black spoke of a 'shack' on Lowell Street which he thought should be destroyed, and Jim Micelli asked if he meant the one owned by Stanley Webber, to which Black said No, this was one place in town that Webber did not own.

Micelli mentioned that the Highway Department had done a 'great' job in removing snow, after the last storm - far better than in the neighboring towns and cities.

He also wanted to know if there was a law suit involving Almsworth Road. No one seemed to know of any.

Niles mentioned that the triangle where Bridge Lane meets Main St. was the property of Bennie Restuccia, of Wilmington Ford, and that Mr Restuccia wanted to deed over the land to the town.

Niles told the Board that he had been talking with the Town Counsel about dividing the town into precincts, and that a motion would be ready for the annual town meeting. The work, if the motion was voted, would then have to be completed within sixty days, Niles said, and then voted on after a report to the next town meeting, special or annual.

Melzar told the board that the division of the town would have to be on motion of the Board of Selectmen.

Mrs Drew said that she had understood before, when Niles had spoken of precincts, that he was talking about having a study group. She warned that there was a lot of work involved, and that the Selectmen would not have the time.

There were two references to the Lighting Study Committee. TM Melzar in the first reference said that the Water Department had had to wait two weeks to have pumps installed, because of the fact that the Lighting Study Committee had made recommendations which the Reading Municipal Light Department was busy carrying out.

He was not to be described as happy as he made his statement.

Paul Niles, later, said that he found that the work involved by the committee had been excellent, and that the street lighting had been much improved in town. He hoped that it would be carried on, with improvements each year. The Town Meeting, he said, had voted more money last year for this purpose, and it was a good idea. Melzar then told Niles that the amount had been increased to $30 thousand, but only $22 thousand had been spent.

Niles said that the Lighting Study Committee should be congratulated for its efforts.

Melzar told the Board that the Massachusetts D.P.W had drawn up preliminary agreements for the Nichols Street Bridge, on which Mr Cain had been working, and that formal agreements would soon be out, with the engineering started.

Black mentioned the fence on the approaches to the Shawshen Ave. RR Bridge as needing repairs. Melzar said that the responsibility was the town's because it was in the approach that there had been damage. Melzar then said that he had read the State Fire Marshall's report on the fires in Wilmington and that it had merely said that the fires were of 'undetermined origin'.

The board had a ten minute executive session, to discuss industrial development.

Letter

Dear Larz:

I am writing this letter so that my reasons, as one Library Trustee, for voting for the Walker School site may be known.

My first reason is that this is the site which most nearly fits the criteria for library location as determined by librarians, town planners, and library building consultants. It is close to the center of the community's daily activities; it is near the transportation centers, commercial centers, professional buildings, banks, post office, etc. The Walker site has been suggested by Wilmington's hired planning consultants over the last several years as a good library location. I gather that the Wilmington Planning Board completely approves of this choice by the Library Board.

My second reason is its size which directly brings into account two other factors - expansion and cost of expansion. The total land area is 2.75 acres; the area between the Police Station and the Walker School is well over an acre in size. There is room to erect a building and also allow for parking. When the Walker School goes there is room for ground expansion without land taking. Eminent domain is the only method available to enlarge a formerly considered site, the old church land, which is less than an acre. Eminent domain is costly in both money and emotion, and it doesn't get voted on favorably very often in town meeting. On the town-owned Walker site there will be no cost for land on which to expand.

These are the two main reasons for my voting for the Walker School site for a library. There are a number of other reasons; it is within easy walking distance of the Common group of schools; the Town does own it now; the area has Adelaide Street to act as a 'feeder' street for cars to enter the library area easily; there are no funeral homes, medical offices, or churches at that section to cause added traffic congestion; etc.

Sincerely yours,
Evelyn M. Norton

Two Boys Nabbed

Two boys, about 13 or 14 years old, suspected of being sneak thieves, were arrested yesterday evening at the D&D Gulf Station in North Wilmington by Officer Vernon Randall, who was off duty at the time.

The boys had a bagful of engine tachometers and other instruments which they were trying to sell to one of the attendants at the station for $10. Officer Randall, in civilian clothes, and in the station, became suspicious, and told them to sit down while he called the police station.

While Randall was on the phone the two boys bolted for the door. One of them was knocked down by a nearby young man, but the other got out and ran down the street, pursued by Randall. He captured the boy after a race of about 100 yards.

The instruments are believed to have been stolen in a Woburn department store yesterday afternoon. Both of the boys are Wilmington residents.

Nosey Nancy

Send your announcements to Nancy, Box 208 Wilmington, or call 657-7141, or 658-4865 after five. If I'm not there, I'll call you.

The Laffin family, of Veranda Avenue is in the news this week. Jeanne received her R.N. from the Lawrence General Hospital in Lawrence recently, and not only has passed the State Board, but she graduated with honors from the school. She is now going on the Staff at Lawrence General. Nice going, Jeannie!

Her brother Freddie was supposed to be home for Christmas but didn't make it. He is on an icebreaker, of the US Coast Guard and the ship was called up to Santa Claus land, somewhere in the Polar seas, because of a break in an underseas cable. So Freddie spent Christmas in Greenland, where he could perhaps hear Santa, as he started on his world wide mission on Dec. 24th.

Another brother, Johnnie, underwent some reconstructive surgery in the Lawrence General Hospital, and it has been successful. He will be back in school after vacation.

We hear that Johnny Pololan is taking the big step to the altar next week, with a nice young lady from Woburn. It seems like it was only yesterday that Johnnie was at our home eating peanut butter and jelly sandwiches with the rest of the group. The wedding bells are sure breaking up that gang! Many happy years ahead, Johnnie!

The Jaycees are getting an enthusiastic response for their Battle of the Bands competition, which is to be held at the High School at 8 pm January 6th. So far there are ten teen-age groups who have signed up for the competition.

There will be a $75 first prize, a $50 second prize, and others. The groups are from Wilmington, Tewksbury, Burlington, Billerica and maybe a few other places.

The proceeds will go to the skating rink on Chestnut Street, the old Wilmington Skating Club rink which is now being renovated, and also towards the Jaycee Scholarship Fund, which they award each year at High School graduation. Sounds like a good worthwhile project, folks.

You might think it came under the heading of the Dirty Tricks Department, but Ralph the Barber, up in North Wilmington is the less than proud possessor of a new cigarette lighter.

You see, Ralph can't use it. It was a nice Christmas gift by Ralph gave up smoking three weeks ago, and he suspects that Selectman Lloyd Bender might be behind that gift.

He and Lloyd are each putting one dollar into a 'kitty' every day. If either one of them smokes a cigarette the other gets the kitty. So far there is $42 jointly owned by the two men, and isn't the idea of giving a cigarette lighter just ducky, under such circumstances?

We hear that Mike Schena, who is working for Sweetheart Plastics, has been accepted for Engineering Studies at Lowell Tech, and that he is being sponsored by Sweetheart. Nice going, Mike.

Friends of Mr and Mrs Harry Lionstone, formerly of Wilmington now of Chichester, NH, will be surprised to hear that Harry is to be seen about Wilmington these days. Mrs Lionstone is confined to the Deaconess Hospital, in Boston, and Harry is visiting old friends, while he is waiting at a place that is near his wife.

George Spanos, our departed 'honorary Mayor of Wilmington' was remembered at Christmas. One of our local 'gendarmes', who doesn't want to be identified, gave the Boston Globe $5, in George's memory, for Christmas gifts.

The new windows are in, at the town hall, and everyone is noticing that they are not the kind that can be opened up to allow in the fresh air. How are they going to put in those air-conditioning units again? Chop holes through the walls?

Raymond Sampson, an 18 year old from Fairmeadow Road spent his first Christmas away from home, at Amarillo Air Force Base in Texas. He has been away from home since Sept. 15th., and is not expected to be able to visit his folks until about March 15th.

But he wrote a little poem, and when his mother showed it to friends they suggested it should be in the Town Crier.

I hope Raymond doesn't mind.

Dear Mum and Dad
I hope and pray each and every day

That the Lord will keep you happy and gay.

I hope and pray, each and every day

That you will be happy on Christmas Day.

I hope and pray for your happiness this day

Because there are those who cannot be happy this gay and joyous day.

For there are those who cannot spend this day

In the Christmas Way.

For they are without a home - without love,

And they cannot see the joyous array

Brought to us, on Christmas Day!

Thanks to all of you, for the many greetings, and the nice words. They are music to my ears. To the many I owe notes, just be patient, please. I will get them off as quickly as possible, and meanwhile, thanks again for helping to make our holidays so good.

And don't forget to start the new year with a bang. Please call me with the news, and let me know what you are doing. Many of you are so prompt - but we want to hear from everybody!

RETIRE SALVATION ARMY COLONEL: Fred Fahey of 8 Federal Street, told the Wilmington Rotary Club, yesterday, of the story of Army, to which he belonged for many years.

Fred Fahey of Federal Street, who told the Rotarians yesterday the story of the Salvation Army is the son of parents who were in the Salvation Army, and is married to a lady who spent many years in the Salvation Army.

He was born in Schenectady NY where his father was a specialist in steam engineering. At the age of 15 he became the office boy for Dr. Charles Steinhilber, the famed electrical wizard for General Electric, a generation ago.

After his graduation from High School Fahey studied accounting and got a degree, after which he served in the Salvation Army, in accounting and administration for 43 years.

He was, for many years, in charge of the legacies given the Salvation Army. Many endowments are given, and 'someone has to care for them, and that was my line' he told the Rotarians. Many of the legacies provide for Fresh Air Camps for children, and other youth activities.

His last five years was in the New York office, where it was his duty, among other things, to negotiate contracts with various union leaders, for the printing industry, and in garment manufacture. He left the Salvation Army on April 28th, 1966, and has lived in Wilmington ever since.
